Call to Action on Combating Fraud

Member States have recognized the need to take coordinated action to prevent and combat fraud, in accordance with the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime¹ and in the context of the General Assembly of the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL).² At the Global Fraud Summit, States will come together to build upon that work and convert words into actions.

To that end, we, the undersigned Member States, in the presence of INTERPOL, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), international organizations, and stakeholders, commit to undertaking the actions against fraud set out below.

¹ Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime resolution 12/2, and the recommendations adopted by the Working Group of Government Experts on Technical Assistance at its sixteenth meeting.

² INTERPOL resolution GA-2022-90-RES-01, recalled in United Nations General Assembly resolution 79/136.

RECOGNIZE AND CRIMINALIZE

- 01 Recognize fraud as an organized transnational threat: consider organized fraud a serious crime under national legislation in order to ensure effective international cooperation.

- 02 Criminalize fraud: establish effective, proportionate and dissuasive sanctions to hold both natural and legal persons accountable.

- 03 International collaboration: recognize that a strong international response is required, and decide to leverage the expertise of partners, including those in the private sector, to strengthen resilience and ensure sustained political backing.

MONITOR AND SHARE

- 04 Monitor the fraud threat: collect and analyse quantitative and qualitative data on organized fraud, including its links to other crimes.

- 05 Enhance the global threat picture: engage strategically with UNODC and INTERPOL to enhance the global understanding of the dynamic and evolving threat posed by organized fraud.

- 06 Improve information-sharing: ensure the greater exchange of strategic information between Governments on emerging threats, new trends and modi operandi, including by taking advantage of INTERPOL mechanisms, as necessary.

STRENGTHEN LAW ENFORCEMENT AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

- 07 Equip authorities with skills and knowledge: equip law enforcement authorities, financial intelligence units, criminal justice practitioners and other competent authorities with the skills and knowledge necessary for combating emerging and evolving forms of fraud and cooperating internationally.

08

Enhance coordination between domestic law enforcement authorities and all relevant national institutions: align the efforts of law enforcement and other competent authorities with a view to ensuring that effective and coordinated national action is taken against fraud and associated crimes.

09

Prioritize international law enforcement action against fraud: strengthen operational cooperation and the exchange of information between law enforcement authorities with a view to disrupting and dismantling transnational organized criminal groups engaged in fraud, leveraging the channels and capabilities of INTERPOL, where necessary, to support the secure and timely transmission of data.

10

Deny criminals the ability to profit from fraud: enhance the capacities of law enforcement authorities to conduct financial investigations and take coordinated and agile action to identify, freeze, seize, confiscate, and dispose of and return the proceeds of organized fraud, in accordance with the Organized Crime Convention, other applicable conventions and domestic legislation.

PREVENT AND PROTECT

11

Prevent fraud: promote prevention initiatives aimed at informing the public and reducing vulnerability to fraud, including through educational and awareness campaigns.

12

Protect and support victims: take appropriate measures within our means to provide assistance and protection to victims of fraud, and establish appropriate procedures to provide access to compensation and restitution for victims of fraud, in accordance with the Organized Crime Convention.

COOPERATE WITH THE PRIVATE SECTOR AND OTHER RELEVANT STAKEHOLDERS

13

Strengthen public-private partnerships and cooperation: strengthen domestic and international cooperation among public agencies, the private sector and other relevant stakeholders in order to more effectively prevent and address fraud, including through the development of new and innovative tools and methodologies.

GLOBAL FRAUD SUMMIT 2026

Global Public-Private Partnership
Framework against Fraud

Fraud is a rapidly evolving transnational threat that erodes public trust, destabilizes economies and undermines the rule of law. Its complexity and scale demand a unified response, as no single jurisdiction, sector or stakeholder can address it alone. Governments, including law enforcement authorities, financial intelligence units and other competent authorities; private sector entities; and consumers each possess distinct and complementary capabilities and strengths in preventing and countering fraud. The present Global Public-Private Partnership Framework against Fraud underscores the critical importance of public-private partnerships, based on respect for the principle of sovereignty, as the foundation for an effective, coordinated response. Built on shared responsibility, the Framework confirms our collective commitment to taking action to prevent and disrupt fraud, on the basis of the principles set out below.

01

Shared responsibility

02

Proactive and coordinated prevention

03

Information-sharing as a basis for cooperation

04

Victim support

05

Education for the public and businesses

06

Innovation and adaptability

01

Shared responsibility: fraud prevention and response is a collective duty for a multitude of actors across sectors and borders. It is built on the spirit of collaboration and a shared sense of urgency, while leveraging the complementary strengths of public and private actors within clear legal and policy frameworks and adapting responses to different contexts.

02

Proactive and coordinated prevention: preventing fraud before it occurs, through coordinated cross-sectoral action taken on the basis of standardized definitions, methodologies and risk analysis, is the best disruption strategy and the most effective and sustainable means of defence.

03

Information-sharing as a basis for cooperation: the timely, secure and lawful sharing of data and actionable information by all relevant actors, with due regard to data protection and privacy, is key to an effective fraud response.

04

Victim support: supporting victims of fraud is essential for rebuilding trust and confidence, reducing further harm, learning from their experiences, and facilitating their cooperation for an effective criminal justice response, enabling the continuous improvement of prevention strategies, awareness efforts and policy responses.

05

Education for the public and businesses: stronger and continuous cross-sector public awareness, digital literacy and fraud prevention education are critical to reducing vulnerability and building widespread resilience against fraud.

06

Innovation and adaptability: leveraging collaborative innovation and emerging technologies is key to anticipating, preventing and disrupting evolving fraud schemes. This may include equipping stakeholders with the necessary skills and knowledge.

Together, we, the undersigned, affirm our commitment to the present Global Public-Private Partnership Framework against Fraud, which represents a decisive step towards a united approach against fraud, grounded in cooperation, accountability and a shared sense of purpose.
